are now in force in Sweden, in accordance with what is known as the Bratske system. The sale of distilled liquors, according to this system, is subjected to the most rigid limitations. The majority report also favors the Swedish system for the sale of beer, according to which beer below 2½ per cent alcohol by weight is sold free of restrictions.

There are two minority reports. One is signed by two members and recommends prohibition by local veto; the "semlag," place of dispensing liquors, to be allowed to import and sell spirits. The third member of the minority recommends total prohibition, or, that the prohibition of distilled spirits be decided by referendum.

The Norwegian government sent a commission to the United States two years ago to study prohibition and other legislative conditions affecting the liquor business in the United States.
